Annexation Strategy Town Hall
City of Rockdale, Texas

Annexation Background

Why the need to annex?

There are many reasons that a city must annex surrounding areas as it and the areas around it grow.

- To Provide areas for future expansion
- To accommodate growth
- To assert zoning or other regulatory control
- To secure tax base, revenue sources
- To protect an area

Rules that must be followed

- Only area in the City’s Extra-Territorial Jurisdiction can be annexed.
- Annexation areas must be contiguous to the city’s corporate limits.
- 10% of total land area can be annexed annually except when City has not annexed in the past two years, then it is up to 30% of land area. Government property is not included in the total, nor are voluntary annexations. Rockdale is currently 2,593 acres; the City could annex a total of 778 acres in the first year of annexations since it has not annexed any areas in the past 3 years.
- Strip annexations less than 1,000 feet in width are prohibited unless initiated by the owner of the land or the city is contiguous to the strip on at least two sides.
- Must follow public hearing and notice process prescribed by State law to annex an area.

Objectives to consider

- Areas that are developed or partially developed should be evaluated upon social, visual, and fiscal impacts.
- The ease by which areas can be served by extending public services or by the reasonable extension of utility lines.
• Place emphasis on highly visible areas, such as along major thoroughfares or freeway corridors.

• Establish a phasing and priority plan for those areas that are suitable for annexation.

• Rely upon the Comprehensive Plan to inform future growth and land use decisions and policies.

What does our Comprehensive Plan tell us?

Section 5.7 of the City’s 2012 Comprehensive Plan provides guidance on where the city should grow and what are the main objectives to consider.

• Develop programs and procedures to stimulate more grouping of residential construction into a given geographic area.

• With so little property currently zoned for nonresidential use, it is critical that additional land be set aside for non-residential use.

• Consider annexation of portions of the Future Growth Area shown on the Future Land Use Plan map for the purpose of encouraging nonresidential development.

• Consider rezoning/acquiring land to allow more commercial or light industrial development in close proximity to the Rockdale airport.

• Consider acquiring land for new parks, open space, and public use areas as this will be necessary if such projects or to be developed.
